ENGLISH PEOPLE DO NOT WANT PEACE

"The average Englishman isn't going hungry yet but his rations are being cut enough to make him angry with the dangerously active submarines. . . . The plain truth is he is fighting mad."

Back from London; where he went as correspondent for the Times-Union of Albany, N. Y., only to find that the British censorship made it impossible to really serve his paper, William B. Sarver, who is a well-known newspaper man, had a real opportunity to learn of how the Englishman views the war and what his ideas are on the subject of peace. In this and subsequent articles Mr. Sarver will tell clients of the International News Service just what he found in war-torn London.

(By W. B. Sarver.)

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York, Dec. 13.—"England does not want peace. The ENGLISH PEOPLE will not have peace. The five weeks I have just spent in London convince me that the average Englishman will not be satisfied until the 'Hun' has been exterminated. I talked with hundreds of Englishmen. Not one of them wants peace. Irrespective of cabinet changes, the war must go on. If Lloyd-George, a few years ago considered almost a dangerous radical, pushes the war determinedly and overcomes the wonderfully organized resistance of the Central Powers, he will be the greatest man in great Britain since William Pitt. The cabinet which entertains peace proposals just now will be out of power over night."

"It takes a long time for the average Englishman to rouse to the fighting pitch. He's angry now. He's 'joining up' now. Each day sees him donning khaki. Each day sees the brother of average Englishman who have been killed, taken prisoner or wounded, joining up. The slacker are becoming fewer every day. The average Englishman is not going hungry yet but his rations are being cut enough to make him angry with the dangerously active submarines. . . . He doesn't fear the Zeppelin so much because he brought forward an anti-aircraft gun that shoots high and true. The plain truth is he is fighting mad."

"Cabinet changes do not worry the average Englishman overmuch. He fumes and frets a bit over his substantial breakfast, as he reads that it has been found necessary to make changes in the government. Then he figures out how he is going to carry on his business after the remainder of his employees 'join up.' His manager has gone, his chief clerk has gone, or will be going. Everybody but the office boy has gone, or is going, and the office boy can't go. He's done his bit. This, he says, is happy that the loss of a leg or arm allows him to earn a pound a week doing errands and answering the telephone."

"The mother of the average Englishman is roused to the fighting pitch when he comes back from the trenches for a breathing spell or to be patched up. She meets him in London. If he is resting she walks with him mornings, has tea with him, goes to the theater with him, all the time drawing out of him the story he does not want to tell. But unconsciously he tells his mother how his pals have been killed—and then she sends him back to the front."

"Several strapping big north of England boys were stopping at my hotel. One began his training two months after war was declared. He has been wounded three times. He is so full of shrapnel fragments that he feels like a washboard when you run your hand over his arms and legs. The third time he was wounded he lost the power of speech through shell shock. Every morning he goes now to an expert who is 'teaching him how to speak. His mother is with him now. When he gets control of his tongue she will send him back again. But that will be some time yet."

"This average Englishman, about twenty-one years old now, tall, straight, broad shouldered, does not want peace, until the Germans are on their knees. It is impossible he says. And he means it. His mother agrees with him. His father, who is well to do, has had to take over the work of several employees who have 'joined up.' His father was too busy to meet him in London. Father agrees with the lad."

GERMAN PROPOSALS A MASTER MOVE

Neutral Diplomats in Washington Consider That Germany has Made a Strong Bid for Sympathy.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Washington, Dec. 13.—Germany has made a master move in diplomacy and world politics. Regardless of the acceptance or rejection of her offer to enter into peace negotiations, Germany has made a strong bid for the sympathy of the neutral world which will be hard to offset. This is the opinion of neutral members of the diplomatic corps here.

It is regarded here as highly improbable that the Entente Allies will consent to enter into the proposed negotiations to attempt to reach a basis for peace.

Even should Great Britain and France be willing to consider the German offer which will be formally conveyed to their governments, it was pointed out, Russia probably would bar the way. The possession of Constantinople is one of the goals of Russia in the European conflict. It was declared, for which she will insist on continuing to fight.

Every indication received here of the British attitude toward the peace proposal has been that as a matter of courtesy to the neutral nation conveying the proposal to the London government they will be received, "considered" and summarily rejected.

State department officials and the White House still maintain silence regarding the proposals. No comment can be made, it was said, until official confirmation of the proposal by the German chancellor reaches here. It is expected that this will be some time today.

The greatest good expected from the German offer, it is believed here, is the revival of efforts by neutrals to bring about peace. While it is too early to state definitely what steps President Wilson contented plates, it was intimated in official quarters that should actual negotiations for peace fail to be brought about by the German move, a representative of the administration, in an official capacity, will be sent abroad.

Should this step be taken, it is probable that Col. E. M. House, the president's close friend and adviser, will be selected to sound-out the sentiment toward peace in the capitals of the nations of the Entente.

Even the arrival of the German offer, expected from the American embassy in Berlin today, may not result in comment from officials here. It is believed nothing will be said by the administration until the concrete terms in which Germany proposes to proceed in the negotiations arrive.

SLEIGHING SEASON OFFICIALLY OPENED

Corporation Counsel Brinnier Makes Sure of at Least One Sleighride Before Leaving for his Winter Home in the South.

Winter is here. The first sleigh of the season made its appearance on the streets this morning and as the tinkle of sleigh bells was heard through the uptown streets there was a general rush to doors and windows to see the first sleighdriver of the season.

Corporation Counsel William D. Brinnier driving one of his paces attached to a cutter was the cause of the commotion. Perhaps, taking advantage of what little snow fell on Tuesday, he decided to have one good sleighride before leaving for his farm in the Isle of Pines, where he spends a great part of the winter. So uncertain is the weather here that Mr. Brinnier decided to "make hay while the sun shone" for this may be the only chance to enjoy a sleighride before he leaves later in the winter for the southern clime, where sleighriding is never enjoyed and snow never falls. If the wise weather prophets are to be believed there will be little snow and cold weather this winter; however, we shall see later.

It is Mr. Brinnier's custom to drive from his home to his office every day, and although he is the owner of several automobiles, he still prefers to make the trip behind one of his horses and to handle the reins himself. What conditions of sleighing Mr. Brinnier encountered on his return journey will be ascertained later.

Something New in Newburgh.

Newburgh is quite excited over the fact that Sweet-Orr and Company's factory is starting to turn out overalls for women, for indoor and outdoor purposes. One style of the overalls gathers after the Turkish fashion at the ankles and one at the knees.

There is also a lounging suit for the boudoir, the Newburgh papers say, although it is a little difficult to associate overalls with the latter word.

Riots in Hamburg.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
London, Dec. 13.—According to a despatch printed in the Daily Express today one thousand persons were killed and wounded in a series of riots in Hamburg. The disorders, it was said, lasted three days, terminating on Saturday when heavy forces of troops arrived from Berlin on special trains.

LONDON SEES ONLY SUMMARY REJECTION

By Telegram to The Freeman.
London, Dec. 13.—That the Entente Powers will summarily reject the peace proposals of Germany and her allies was taken as a foregone conclusion today.

England and the allied nations are not being misled into the opinion that Germany is weakening, according to the view taken by the press. Even while the note containing the German proposals was being written Germany was taking steps to carry on the war more vigorously than ever, it is declared.

The Rotterdam correspondent of the Daily Telegraph understands that the peace note, which was handed to the envoys of the United States, Spain and Switzerland and the Vatican as well, was written by the Kaiser.

His telegram follows: "I understand the notes were handed to the ambassadors of the neutral powers last evening. This was done by the chancellor in behalf of the Kaiser."

The Kaiser had returned from field headquarters on Saturday. The note was drafted personally by the Kaiser after a conference at headquarters with King Ludwig of Bavaria, von Bethmann-Hollweg and Dr. Zimmermann, the foreign secretary. The leaders of political parties in the Reichstag were not let into the secret until this morning, when they were received by the German foreign secretary. The majority of the Reichstag deputies were in the dark until the very last moment.

There had been well founded reports that the momentous session of the German Reichstag yesterday would deal with peace and the offer to enter into negotiations did not take England and her allies entirely by surprise.

It is a fateful coincidence that the peace offer comes at a time when the British and French governments are being strengthened for the purpose of prosecuting the war more vigorously than ever before.

Some of the military critics believe that a formal rejection of Germany's peace proposals will result in methods of warfare by land and sea more ruthless than those yet attempted in the world conflict. It has been intimated by von Hindenburg, the German chief of staff, that a rejection of German peace overtures would open the door for unlimited and drastic endeavors to bring about victory. It is possible, and many persons believe very probable, that Germany's first step in this direction will be the inauguration of a relentless submarine warfare upon Allied shipping.

No member of the government would discuss the peace proposal for publication and officials stated that the text of the German note would have to be seen before any idea could be gained. But despite the absence of official declarations the attitude of the members of the new government is so well known that the newspapers are stating in definite terms that the peace proffer will receive scant attention.

It is believed likely that Premier Lloyd-George will deliver a speech upon peace in parliament soon setting forth the exact and definite attitude of England and her allies.

GENERAL JOFFRE HAS BEEN DEPOSED

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Paris, Dec. 13.—General Joseph Joffre, the military idol of the French nation, has been deposed.

The first step in the re-organization of the high command of the French army has been the appointment of General Nivelle as commander in chief.

Bearing out predictions that the results of the reconstruction of the government would be felt in the Balkans as well as the western theater of war, the cabinet also has replaced Admiral Du Fournet, commander-in-chief of the Anglo-French fleet in Greek waters, with Admiral Gaucher.

France is to have a war council of six members. It likely will act in close co-operation with the new English war council.

Premier Briand was scheduled to make a speech in the chamber of deputies today dealing with the aims of the new government. The chief points in the new cabinet, it is said, will be filled with the following:

Premier, Aristide Briand; minister of finance, Alexandre Ribot; minister of war, General Lyautey; minister of marine, Admiral Lacaze; minister of labor, Paul Painlevé; minister of munitions, Albert Thomas; minister of interior, Louis Malvy.

The policy of the new French government will be identical with that of England's, namely: Concentration of authority; a more vigorous prosecution of the war and utilization of the national resources in both men and materials.

BEAR RAID FAILS IN WALL STREET

By Telegram to The Freeman.

New York, Dec. 13.—The stock market recovered today from the tempestuous scenes and stampeding values that marked the announcement of Germany's peace overtures.

Another bear raid attempting to force down prices from the strength they showed on the opening failed completely this forenoon and midday found the market regaining its equilibrium. An exceptionally firm tone developed shortly after noon, helped to a great extent by buying orders from western speculators.

The copper group, which displayed such marked weakness yesterday, continued strong after opening fractionally above last night's close. The same was true of steel and rail issues.

The transfer of the plant was made on Saturday. Mr. Powell purchased the Middletown factory three months ago and has been running it successfully since that time in connection with his local plant. Mr. Wolf, who has taken over the Middletown plant, is a former president of the Chamber of Commerce of that city and is a well-known business man. Mr. Powell will continue his Pine Grove avenue plant which is busy at the present time filling holiday orders for paper boxes.

JUDGE DECIDES THOMPSON CASE

Judge Hasbrouck has handed down a decision in the case of Andrew D. Hill against Robert F. Thompson, individually and as administrator of the estate of Louise J. Thompson and others, in which a motion recently was made before him to set aside a judgment of foreclosure and sale and to permit Lulu Rappleyea, one of the defendants, to interpose an answer.

According to the statements and affidavits submitted on the argument in special term, Daniel Huggins, who now lives in New Jersey, became the owner in 1909 of a mortgage given by his sister, Louise J. Thompson, in consideration of $800 which he had advanced to her. A satisfaction piece was claimed to have been executed but never filed, and the existence of the satisfaction piece of the mortgage was explained by the statement that Huggins had given it with the understanding that it be destroyed. It should then be filed, but his sister died first it should be returned to him and the mortgage should stand. Robert F. Thompson was appointed administrator of his mother's estate, and says he returned the satisfaction piece to Huggins, in accordance with the agreement made by his mother during her lifetime.

Several judgments had existed against Mrs. Louise J. Thompson. One was for $250, which was obtained against her by the National Bank of Griffin Corners. The bank sold its judgment to Mrs. Susie Winter, who was made a party defendant to the action. Mrs. Lulu Rappleyea, a daughter of Mrs. Louise J. Thompson, believed that the action would defend the action and consequently she did not serve an answer. Mrs. Winter filed an answer but did not defend, and it was after the judgment of foreclosure and sale had been granted that Mrs. Rappleyea applied to Judge Hasbrouck to set aside the judgment of foreclosure and sale and to be allowed to interpose an answer.

The mortgage was purchased by Mr. Hill from Seth Jocelyn, who had purchased it from Robert F. Thompson. In denying the motion made by Mrs. Rappleyea, Judge Hasbrouck says:

There is nothing in the moving papers to show that the mortgage from Louise J. Thompson to her brother Daniel Huggins was ever paid except that a paper like a satisfaction piece had been seen in Louise's hands. Louise is dead. Her daughter, the defendant, Lulu Rappleyea, claims her mother told her the mortgage was not a "real lien or claim against the property." This seems to be effectively negated by a statement in the handwriting of the mother as to the manner in which her brother, Daniel, delivered to her $300, the consideration of the mortgage. A satisfaction piece is merely a receipt. It may have been used to meet the purpose stated in the affidavit of Henry A. Cole to wit: to insure Louise against the payment of the mortgage if her brother Daniel had died before her. I am inclined to believe that was the arrangement and that the paper was destroyed as the affidavit of Robert F. Thompson states. If Louise ever paid the mortgage in money or property no suggestion of it appears in the moving papers. If the defendant Rappleyea was in possession of proof to defeat the mortgage she exercised poor judgment in leaving the defense of the foreclosure to the defendant Susie Winter. The satisfaction piece, assuming that it existed, in light of the facts heretofore advanced, would not constitute sufficient evidence to warrant disturbance of the judgment of foreclosure.

Motion denied with $10 costs.

Joseph M. Fowler appeared for Mrs. Rappleyea and the motion, which was opposed by Judge Betts, counsel for Mr. Hill. County Attorney John W. Eckert appeared for Thompson.

WOOD JURY UNABLE TO AGREE

After being out from 5 o'clock until 11 o'clock Tuesday evening the jury in the case of William Wood against the New York, Ontario & Western Railroad were unable to agree and were discharged from duty. The action was to determine whether Mr. Wood signed a release freeing the railroad from damages which he received when a boom broke while he was working for the railroad. Mr. Wood is a resident of Middletown and was injured near that city.

The action brought by Fred Rockefeller and Stanley W. Lasher against the Charles Ramsay Company to recover the balance due on a bill for drilling a well at the plant of the Ramsay Company, was taken up.

The well drillers who do work under the name of The Germantown Artesian Well Company were hired on March 25, 1910, to drill a well for the company and a contract stipulating the amount per foot was drawn up and signed. The contract is not disputed. At the time Mr. Ramsay, so the plaintiffs say, told them that he understood water could be found at 25 feet but he was a little skeptical as to the water secured at that depth and was afraid it would fail in a drought.

The defendant claims that he did not tell them anything as to depth but reserved the right to stop work at any time water was reached, and that the drillers struck water at about 25 feet but continued to drill. They did not notify the defendant of the striking of water but continued to drill to a depth of 198 feet when Mr. Ramsay heard of the matter and telegraphed from New York to cease work. At that time there was nothing but signs of water and as the work was stopped and never finished the company had never had any use of the well.

The plaintiffs claim that an agent of the Ramsay Company was on the job at the plant and when they reached water at 25 feet, told them to drill on to a greater depth. Whether the agent told them to drill on and whether he had the authority is practically the only issue in the case.

Judge Van Elten with Andrew J. Cook appearing for the plaintiff and J. A. Lammiman with Hermon Wood appearing for Mr. Ramsay.

The amount of the bill sent by the plaintiffs is $612.83 on which $207 has been paid, leaving a balance of $405.83. The amount of the bill is in accordance with the contract.

When the disputed well failed to produce water a local well driller bored another well nearby to a depth of 25 feet and the company has since been using this water.

"Fine Feathers," by Eugene Walter, who is considered one of America's foremost dramatists, will be the attractive offering of the Marguerite Fields Company at the Kingston Opera House tonight. The play has been made famous by Rose Coughlin, Laura Hope Crews and Wilton Lackaye. The story is drawn along natural lines and tells the adventures of two young people recently married, trying to live on the meagre pittance he earns as chemist for a cement company. He succumbs to the temptation to pass on an inferior quality of the product, with disastrous results. The story contains many intensely dramatic moments. Thursday's matinee will be "A Widow by Proxy" and on Thursday night "Along Came Ruth" will be one of the big features of the week's entertainment.

STREET GOSSIP ABOUT TOWN

There was a smell of illuminating gas in the bedroom, but still the occupants of the room slept.

Suddenly the woman tossed and turned in bed and as if some force lifted her closed eyelids she slowly opened her eyes and gazed dazedly about the darkened room. Still half asleep she realized the unusual odor in the room, and with a strangled cry she shook her sleeping spouse and then leaping from the bed rushed to the gas jet and placed one finger over the hole through which the gas was slowly flowing into the room.

As she stood heroically at her post she called frantically to her spouse who with sleep laden eyes sat up in bed, until her repeated calls brought the realization to him that something was radically wrong.

By the time he had caught the full significance of her attitude at the gas jet her arm had become tired from holding it in such a position, and she felt ready to drop with exhaustion when her husband rushed to her aid with a hunk of cheese with which he hurriedly attempted to plug the hole with partial success.

The bedroom windows were then thrown open to allow the gas to escape and not until then did husband and wife realize that the easiest plan would be to turn off the gas jet.

It had not fully been turned off when they retired for the night.

He was a plain hobo and his clothes as such. He slowly shuffled into the yard of a local resident the other day, but the woman alone in the house saw him coming and hastily pulled down the shades and locked the door.

The tramp when he reached the back door and found the shades drawn turned and slowly shuffled out of the yard without attempting to knock on the door.

Through a partly drawn shade the woman of the house watched the hobo as he shuffled across the street, and after looking up and down and seeing no one watching him the tramp reached down and picked a filled milk bottle off the front porch and started to slip it in his pocket.

As he did so the woman who had drawn her shades stopped out on the porch and called to him saying that if he did not replace the milk bottle she would have him arrested.

The tramp glanced across the street at the woman and then reluctantly placed the bottle back on the porch and with another glance across the street shuffled off until a bend in the street hid him from view.

A minute or so later the woman who prevented the theft of her neighbor's milk bottle opened the back door to get her bottle of milk to prepare breakfast and—

She had saved the neighbor's milk but the tramp had taken her milk bottle.

They had been married for several years, and she had been in the habit of once a year leaving husband alone to keep house while she spent a few days visiting her folks in another city.

The time rolled around the other day for her to make her yearly visit and when her husband came home from work he found a note on the kitchen table reading "Dear hubby, read II Kings, XXI, the latter part of the thirteenth verse."

He did, as she found when she returned home from her visit.

When Men Fought Hand to Hand. The most fearsome of all the ancient Russian weapons was the great battle-ax. There were many different types of these, but all were alike in having queerly shaped, broad blades, often of huge proportions and mounted on long poles. The upper portion of the blade usually projected in a fantastic curve above the haft, while the lower end bent toward the pole, to which it was attached by a lashing of wire.

Separate a chicken into pieces at the joints, wash carefully, cover with boiling water and let boil quickly; after six to eight minutes reduce the heat and let the liquid simmer until the chicken is tender, about an hour and a half. Mix a half cupful of flour with salt and pepper and a little cream and stir into the hot liquid; stir until boiling, then simmer 15 minutes. Add a pint of oysters and quickly reheat to the boiling point. Serve with hot baking powder biscuit and celery.

WILSON DIAGNOSES ILLS OF KINGSTON

"Leadership" of Men Who Cannot Work and Will Not Give is One of Them—Chamber of Commerce
Campaign is Succeeding.

A brief but pointed diagnosis of Kingston's ills and an emphatic assertion that it is time for the city to make it plain that it cannot follow patriarchal leadership of men who can't work and won't give were two points of the remark made by Campaign Director Lucius Wilson at the noonday luncheon of the Chamber of Commerce expansion workers today at the West Shore Hotel. Nearly sixty men were present and enjoyed to the utmost the menu set forth by Landford Pessner, a recent acquisition in local hotel circles, who made a most favorable impression with excellent service. Everything rotated to the pace set by the Rotary Club, which means that things went off splendidly with the "pep" that knows no need of pep.

Team captains reported amid enthusiasm from the time the Rotarians demanded in unison whether anybody around the premises had seen Vincent A. Gorman to the last word from Wilson, a strong note of optimism in regard to city prospects which carried an ultimatum to would-be local leaders whose pedal extremities get chilled at any prospect of disinterested work for the community good.

When W. C. Kingman reported he told a good story of the man who kicked when the circus parade went by because he had turned his chair with its back to the street. That is the position of several people in this city, he said, and they persisted in keeping their chairs turned away from the C. of C. parade. Three of the people he called on told him to never come back, he said, but of ten memberships secured, one man had given him $10 extra for expenses. Somebody suggested putting the money toward buying one way tickets for three men cited.

"The more backward a town is the more complacent and self-satisfied its people" was one of the taboos of truth from the Wilson. Another was that the towns most satisfied with themselves are the towns that need the most. The towns that seem discontented over things are the towns where they have the most.

How the men in Des Moines found that in themselves was sufficient motive power to carry the city forward was an experience that can be repeated in Kingston, the speaker said. Speaking of the sort of leadership he criticized Mr. Wilson said that no man who ever had a position of prominence in the community would ever relinquish it on his own initiative.

What Mr. Wilson Said.

Mr. Wilson referred briefly to his long experience with cities and his study of their characteristics which had made him realize that cities had personalities the same as men and fully as susceptible of analysis.

"I take my hat off to you men of Kingston," he said, "for here you have a peculiar case of individuality. The average man in Kingston assumes that if he keeps out of jail, roses homes nights, pays his taxes and pays his debts he has attained the full measure of citizenship."

Continuing, he quoted Dayton's experience with the proposition of self-sacrifice for the community and the benefits thus realized and stated that a Chamber of Commerce, judged commercially, can do a great work to better the reputation of Kingston as a business center. In criticizing the leadership at present, he emphasized in the community life, the speaker took occasion to pay a tribute to Edward Cockendall and his position with respect to the work now being carried on.

There is another group of men in this town who honestly believe themselves community leaders, he went on to say, and painted these self-constituted leaders as shortsighted, totally lacking in the qualities of leadership, being unimaginative and utterly unable to look forward into the future and really lead.

Rather than mention names and give rise to any personalities, the speaker cited Des Moines as an illustration of the success of a city in getting out from under this sort of leadership. There two families were in control and after 20 years of such patriarchal leadership, evidences of which he cited, Des Moines was a town of muddy streets, little business and a generally hopeless outlook. How all this was changed through the efforts of a group of men without as much as asking of your leave or the two families in question made a most interesting story to the audience.

"You can't follow men who won't work and won't give," he declared and went on to picture how new leadership will give the city a new reputation. How business jumped by leaps and bounds once the cities he cited had come to realize their own abilities to go forward with out regard to assumed leadership of non-performers was shown by facts and names cited, the speaker asserting that if a town had a reputation as a dull and stupid town that any business within it was likely to be so regarded.

In community endeavor, he held, lies the foundation of business success. That it is a bad thing for a progressive grocer, or a progressive butcher, to have a backward, sloppy and dirty competitor was also pointed out. Speaking of what brought people to the Rose-Gorman-Rose store for example, Mr. Wilson declared it to be a variety of motives, some of which depended upon other business in the community. He summed up his point by saying that the total of the reputations of all business houses in a town are what constitutes the attraction for trade from a given territory.

Athletic Association Dance.

An informal dance will be held this evening at St. John's parish house under the auspices of Moran's Business School for the benefit of the athletic association of the school. This is rather a new field of activity for a business school to enter upon but that up to date institution evidently believes in physical as well as mental fitness. In the first part of the new year the athletic association intends to begin basketball and the prospects are that it will produce a winning team. Each position on the team is most capably filled by an experienced player, making its prospects bright. This association will appreciate the patronage of the many friends of the school.

Mrs. Basten had the first paper for the day, admirably presenting the subject of "John Knox and the Reformers." A second and very excellent paper was given by Mrs. Hobson, whose subject was "The Covenanters." During the business session note was made of the three dollars given to the Industrial Home for the Thanksgiving celebration, and it was voted to give three dollars toward helping a needy family at Christmas and two dollars for the Christmas gifts at the Tuberculosis Hospital. The club will now take a recess until after the holidays, holding its next meeting on January 2 at the home of Mrs. Bell on Franklin street.

Dance at Army Tonight. Prof. Maisenholder of the Tenth Regiment Orchestra has arranged a fine program of dance music to be rendered at the army this evening, for the second dance by this orchestra, held under the auspices of Company M. From all indications a record crowd will be dancing in the army drill shed tonight, to the strains of this popular local orchestra, which has already earned fame, for the excellent dance music they render. Dancing will start at eight o'clock and continue until one, with an intermission at eleven. The program of dance music follows:

The Manure Question.

G. N. Wood, agent for the West Shore railroad, wrote City Clerk Cunningham regarding the unloading of manure on the station track or private sidings in the city, and asked if the health board had any restrictions regarding that commodity. The communication was forwarded to the health board and read at the meeting.

After some discussion in which it was brought out that there had been some trouble several years ago when a car of manure was unloading near the Broadway crossing Commissioner McBride offered a resolution that no person or corporation shall unload or permit to be unloaded any manure brought into the city by any common carrier without a written permit from the health officer. The resolution was seconded by Dr. Huhne and unanimously carried.

City Council was instructed to notify Agent Wood of the adoption of the resolution.

Outside Vault Approved.

A. S. Hammond of the building committee of the Delaware avenue tabernacle asked permission to install an outside vault which would be discontinued at the close of the evangelistic campaign and Commissioner McBride moved the application be granted which was carried.

YOUR COAL BIN.

How to Save Your Black Diamonds Just Now.

VARIOUS KINDS OF SIFTERS.

An Expert Tells Us How to Keep One Eye Pooled on the Furnace While the Other Sees the High Cost of Living. It Pays to Have Implements.

While many women are under the tyranny of the janitor, still others glory in our shame of being a householder and have to do more than theoretically tackle the coal bin. Even if we have a man to feed the furnace and remove the ashes, it might save us some pennies to become better acquainted with some of the coal savers on the market.

First among these may be cited a "heat controller." This may be called the watchdog of the coal bin, as by regulating the heat it prevents unnecessary burning of coal or new building of the fire because through carelessness it was allowed to die out. It has a clock attachment, which can be set at a desired time. For instance, it can be set an hour earlier than the rising time, with the temperature set for 70. When you awake instead of finding a chilly, frigid house the house is warm and comfortable, due to the magic of the heat controller.

With coal at its present price a ton it is wise to have the best kind of a sifter. Various "rotary" styles are on the market, which sift the coal from the waste, so to speak, and permit the slightly burned coals to be saved, when they can be used again to bank the fire. These sifters come in various sizes and consist of a hopper fitted to a can. The hopper is equipped with wire mesh, and turning the handle sifts the ashes, but retains the larger partly burned lumps for second use.

One of the conveniences for the householder who has to buy a quantity of coal is the right kind of coal window or chute. One of the most practical on the market is a combined window and chute. The parts are made of strong metal, the window protected by a wire mesh. The parts of the window opens the chute within, which is attached to the window and part of it. This relieves the need of extra chutes. The window locks automatically when it is closed, thus being burglar proof. It saves coal being scattered at the entrance of the window and is so made that it seems an integral part of the house and cellar when installed.

No matter what kind of a heating system is used in your home, the boiler must be "jacketed" with some kind of asbestos material. These jackets can be bought for a regular boiler, such as is frequently attached to a kitchen range. The jacket lines up and can be most easily attached. Special sized boilers can have the jackets made to order, or the boiler covered with asbestos composition material used by steamfitters. Keeping the heat in is as much of a coal saver as anything else. The best plan will waste heat if not sufficiently insulated.

The best coal ranges are fitted with dumping grates connected with a chute to a bin in the cellar. This is a great convenience, removing the necessity for dragging buckets of coal and ashes to and from the cellar and about the rooms. Such a chute could be fitted with a sifter and the better grades of ashes saved for use again. It pays those who have the management of a heating system to investigate thoroughly improvements and systems which will help reduce the high cost of heating.

with narrow velvet ribbon across the would be bolero and belted with a wider ribbon. Any babyish color thus treated would be equally pretty.

To Tuck and Hem.

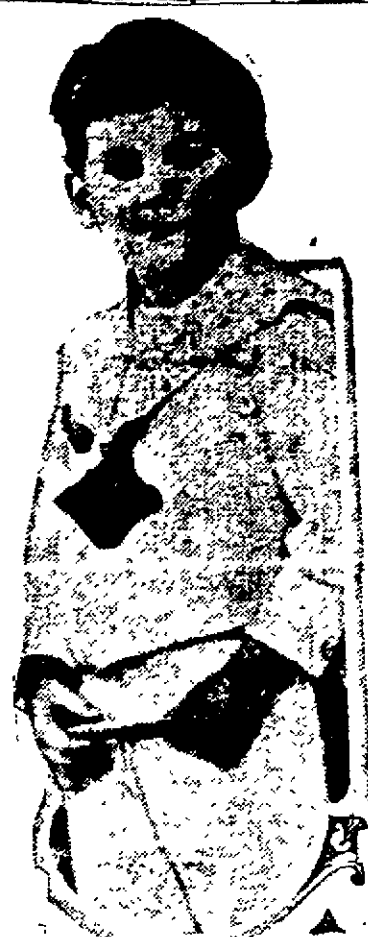

Garments which are to be tucked by hand are much easier and more neatly done if the tucks are folded by the machine. Adjust the tucker to right size, then adjust the stitch and remove the thread from the needle, tucking just as if the thread were there. In the hand sewing follow the line of the needle pricks. Table linen may be marked in the same manner for hemming by hand.

Cooking Note.

Basins in which anything made with flour has been mixed should be put to soak in cold water.

Cheerful Surroundings.

Uncle Josh—"Here's a letter from Nephew Harry, that's gone to Africa, and says that within 20 rods of his house there's a family of 'leopard' hyenas." His wife—"Well, I am glad he's got pleasant neighbors, anyway—that's something."—Tib-Bits.

PRINCE GEORGE OF GREECE MAY SUCCEED CONSTANTINE ON THRONE OF GREECE.

According to reports from German sources Prince Peter, the nine-year-old son of Prince George of Greece, may be placed upon the throne of that country by the allies in the place of King Constantine. According to report, if the little fellow is placed on the throne, Venizelos, former Premier of Greece, will be made regent.

SOME BASEBALL RECORDS.

Big Shutout Scores in the Modern History of the Game.

In the early days of baseball white-washing a team was one of the most sensational episodes of the game. The ball was so lively, with plenty of rubber between the covers, the pitcher's delivery so restricted and the fielding, owing to the inevitable tremendous batting, so loose that to prevent a team from scoring was considered almost a miracle. Big scores were the rule, sometimes going into 150 runs. When the Mutinis in 1870 shut out the Chicago, the score being 9 to 0, it created an excitement all over the country, the memory of which lasted for more than a score of years. Occasionally even now we hear of a team being "Chicagoed."

Because of the radical changes in the rules of the game it would be rather misleading to measure present standards with the models set up in "ancient" days. "Modern" baseball history begins in 1890.

In the major league (National league and American association) big shutout scores had been registered in the past. In 1890, 1891, 1892, 1893, 1894, 1895, 1896, 1897, 1898, 1899, 1900, 1901, 1902, 1903, 1904, 1905, 1906, 1907, 1908, 1909, 1910, 1911, 1912, 1913, 1914, 1915, 1916.

Three times in the National league a score of 19-0 was turned in. The first was made on July 15, 1893, in a game in Pittsburgh, the Pirates shutting out the Washingtons by these figures. Three years later, nearly to the day (July 8, 1896), the feat was repeated, the Pirates again shutting out the Washingtons.

The third 19-0 game was played at New York on June 7, 1906, Chicago defeating the Giants.

In the American league Detroit shut out Cleveland, 21-0, on Sept. 15, 1901, and on Aug. 31, 1907, New York shut out Washington, 20-0.—Philadelphia Ledger.

There goes a tallionaire who brags about his son to everybody who will listen.

"Evidently the young fellow is not like the average heir to great wealth." "No, indeed. The old gentleman was trimmed in the stock market last week, and when he discovered that his own son had turned the trick he was the proudest man in the United States."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Think of This.

"Found an honest man yet?" we asked Diogenes.

"Ran across a phenomenon today that interested me almost as much. A lady giving up housekeeping was running around trying to find a situation for a good cook."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

SCHOOL HALL IS BOWER OF GREEN

Bazaar of Ladies' Aid of Spring Street Lutheran Church to Open Tonight With Elaborate Display of Decorations and Home-made Articles.

The school hall of the Spring street Lutheran church has been transformed into a veritable fairyland through the elaborate decorations arranged for the annual bazaar of the Ladies' Aid Society which will open tonight with a wealth of Christmas articles in evidence in the booths together with a German supper and music. Preparations now under way indicate the affair will be one of the most successful of the many already to the credit of this church and its active women's organization.

The bazaar which is to be open for two nights will serve a supper to-night but Thursday night refreshments only will be served. The Round Social Maennerchor will be represented and a number of selections will be given. To judge from the handsome decorations already placed, the Christmas spirit will be in evidence on all sides at the school hall and a large attendance is anticipated. Indeed, it will be well worth while to view the holidays garb of the room and the different booths over which members of the aid society will preside. A huge sign, "Welcome," occupies a conspicuous place near the center of the room.

Leaves of our own mountain laurel predominate in the color scheme and evergreen together with small fir trees shows in every part of the room. Lighted with electric lights and these reflected from the silver tinsel, stars and other features of the decorations the sight will be a delightful one. Everyone of the supporting posts in the room is screened in holiday attire and ropes of laurel leaves, wound with silver tinsel, have been strung from booth to booth and about the room, the lighting fixtures sharing in the tasteful adornment. American flags are everywhere in evidence in the booths and about the walls of the room.

Especially attractive is the candy booth in the center of the room which is literally a bower of blossoms, a suggestion of spring being noted in the peach blows which comprise the roof while greens are banded in the rear and on each side. Home-made candy of the kind for which the ladies of the church have established a reputation well deserved will be dispensed here.

The fancy work booth presents an appropriate scene, its roof of glistening, drifting snowy material being surmounted with a chimney from which a smiling Santa Claus is emerging. The background is of American flags with a fir tree on each side of the counter while all about are silver stars and cloth making a most effective setting for the articles here to be displayed.

As for the dolls, those indispensable attributes to Christmas, one entire booth is given over to them. This booth is triangular in shape and each of the three supports is a miniature Christmas tree with tiny angels nestling in the branches and electric lights skillfully concealed amid the decorations. There will be plenty of dolls, all home-dressed by the young ladies of the congregation.

The domestic booth has lattice work supports in green and white stripes and here rag rugs, aprons and countless household articles dear and essential to feminine peace of mind. Here also greens make a pretty part of the decorative idea. Nearby is the German souvenir booth at which will be sold pictures of German generals and other keepsakes of interest. German and American flags predominate here with the laurel.

Altogether in arrangement and effect, the decorations surpass anything heretofore attempted and the goods on sale will be in keeping. A large attendance on the part of the public is anticipated.

LIBELED THE KING.

Then He Turned Informer and Won a Substantial Reward.

A colonel in the Prussian army, who had been discharged at the close of the Seven Years' war, importuned Frederick the Great to be reinstated. Weary of the incessant solicitations of his troublesome visitor, Frederick at length gave orders that he should never be admitted to his presence. Some weeks later a most bitter libel against his majesty appeared. Frederick seldom gave himself any concern about such attacks, but the present one exasperated him so much that he offered a reward of 50 Friedrichs of gold for the discovery of the author. The day following the disgraced colonel demanded and obtained an audience.

"Sir," he began, on being admitted, "your majesty has just promised 50 Friedrichs for the discovery of the author of a recent publication. I am come to claim that recompense. Behold in me the unfortunate libeler! My life I forfeit freely, but remember your royal pledge, and while you punish me, send to my poor wife and children the reward due to the informer."

The king, although struck with the sad extremity and self sacrifice of the officer, said sternly:

"Go instantly to the fortress of Spandau and there await my judgment."

"I obey," said the culprit. "But the money?"

"Within two hours your wife shall receive it," said the king. "Take this letter and give it to the commandant, but he must not open it until after dinner."

The colonel arrived at Spandau and gave himself up as a prisoner. At the prescribed moment the commandant opened the royal mandate. It ran:

To the bearer I give the command of Spandau. The present governor is to take the command of Berlin as a reward for past services.

FREDERICK.

A Lament From Japan.

The opening of Japan has brought many new trades, but it has driven others out of existence. One handicraft which is making a long but a losing fight is that of making fude or writing brushes. It might have been expected to increase, seeing that education is ten times as prevalent as in the old days, but the steel pen and the lead pencil are formidable competitors and, with their vulgar efficiency, are gradually making the use of fude obsolete. In the primary schools young Japan is taught to wield the brush, but in the middle schools they care but little for the elegance of the Chinese style of writing, and the modern steel pen is much in evidence.—Japan Society Bulletin.

FIRST ADVERTISING

It Was Done In Egypt, on Papyrus, Thirty Centuries Ago.

ANCIENT PUBLICITY DEVICES.

The Greeks Used Town Criers and Music, and Then Came Symbols and Signboards—The Revolution That Accompanied the Art of Printing.

The Egyptian gentleman who sought a runaway slave 3,000 years ago and advertised on a bit of papyrus for his recovery turned out the first piece of advertising copy.

Whoever he was, he was a genius in more than a small way. His copy still lives, preserved in the British museum as an exhibit of considerable archaeological importance and as an example of what our advertising experts of today would do if they, like the Egyptian, did not have the benefit of up to date information.

The Egyptians knew nothing about the topography of advertising nor the effect of different colors. He didn't know, for instance, that red is the most effective eye catching color and that green is second and black third.

Of these and a thousand other things that influence the character of present day advertisements he was totally ignorant. But he gets full credit for making the first attempt at a written advertisement.

The Greeks, with a fine regard for art, usually made music a part of the advertising program. They gave us the idea of employing bands to attract attention, undoubtedly one of the most successful methods of drawing a crowd at any place and time.

At first a town crier, accompanied by a musician playing a lyre or a lute, mingled among the Greek people and used only the best and choicest Greek in his extravagant praises of the product he was exploiting. Later, however, private advertisements in writing began to be introduced, particularly on the whitened walls of the houses, giving some information regarding the social standing and the age of the residents, their financial rating and the family lineage.

The Romans advertised in many ways. They named their stores, advertised shows, exhibitions and sales on the terra cotta walls of public buildings, in quainted the public with sales of estates and absconded debtors and began the practice of notifying the owners of articles lost and found and a host of other things.

The Romans are commonly credited with the origin of the sign board. Today we have the bulletin board, which corresponds to the Roman tabella found in the ruins of Pompeii and Herculaneum, where public announcements were made.

Advertising met the same fate as the Romans did when the Romans came sweeping down from the north. Until the middle ages very little of it is seen. But with the appearance again of the town crier, supplied with the customary long winded declarations and a choice supply of adjectives, advertising began to make itself felt in the conduct of business affairs. The public efforts began to organize themselves both in France and in England, and they were persons with considerable prestige.

From crying out the superior qualities of merchandise and all kinds of goods and wares the crier soon began to make announcement of things lost and found, of sales, weddings, christenings and other interesting events. Gradually as time went on lines began to use distinctive signs and symbols to mark their hosteleries, just as individuals had employed coats of arms. All kinds of devices were used and are still used by tens to the present day. All such signs as the blue anchor the black dragon, the three lions, the bear's head, the red lion, and so on, made definite representations and implications.

Of course with the development of the printing press advertising took a great spurt. The use of posters came into vogue, and all kinds of pamphlets were printed and distributed. Printing gradually began to supersede the handwritten manuscript. William Caxton set up his press in Westminster abbey in 1471, and two centuries later, in 1622, a newspaper, believed to be the first real newspaper, was printed. It was called the Weekly News and purported to contain news of doings in will strengthen and fortify you against Grippe, and if you have had it, Scott's will restore your strength faster than any other known medicine.

Scott & Bowne, Bloomfield, N. J.

Germany, France, Hungary and Bohemia.

From then on newspapers, mostly weekly publications, began to appear from time to time in increasing numbers. Advertisements of medicines began to be inserted in the newspapers at an early date. The insertion of the first real newspaper advertisements, however, is credited to Nathaniel Butler, who advertised books.

The first two magazines to carry advertisements were Godey's Lady Book and Peterson's, but it was not until 1844 that magazine advertising really began, and it was not until 1850 that a general use was made of magazines for advertising purposes. — Philadelphia Press.

FRANK M. SWACKER.

FEDERAL PROBE OF HIGH PRICES STARTS IN NEW YORK.

Frank M. Swacker.

New York, Dec. 13.—Frank M. Swacker has been retained by Attorney General Gregory to take charge of the department of justice probe of the high cost of foodstuffs which has been started here.

CAPTURED THE AUDIENCE.

Ned Harrigan's Plea at the Critical Point in a Play.

Edward Harrigan once said that the most trying moment in his theatrical career occurred in New Orleans soon after the war between the states. He had gone south with his company and, yielding somewhat to popular request, put on "The Blue and the Gray."

The play had been a success up north, but down south, with the air still full of the bitterness of the war, it was a dangerous experiment. Tony Harrigan was to represent the Confederate gray, so he hunted up a uniform of the Louisiana Tigers, and when he came marching on, young, stalwart, handsome, the typical soldier boy in the beloved uniform, the house, men and women, cheered and shouted and cried for all their heroes embodied in this boy.

Harrigan, standing in the wings in his northern blue, waiting to go on, had just one thought—"They'll kill me!" Then he stepped out, the embodiment of the enemy, and a cold, dead silence fell upon the house. Not a hand moved for him. The audience was tense with emotion, and there was only an instant to act if the play was to be saved.

Harrigan, big, kindly, good looking, came swiftly down to the front and stepped over the foot of gutter, leaning down to them. "For the love of heaven, won't you give the Yankee a hand?" he exclaimed.

At once the house was caught and all the pent-up feeling turned the right way. There was a yell of applause and the audience was won.

Something Wrong.

"There was a steep embankment on my right and a high wall on my left," explained the lamplighted motorist. "Around a curve swept a big touring car full of intoxicated joy riders. I was between Scylla and Charybdis."

"Hold on," interrupted the interested listener. "You told me just now you were on the road between Perkinsville and Jackson's Gap when this accident happened." — Spokane Review.

ONE CENT A WORD ADVS. BRING RESULTS

PROHIBITIONISTS ORGANIZE FOR WORK

Notwithstanding the storm of Tuesday which hindered a large number from attending the annual meeting of the Prohibition County Committee, a goodly number pushed through the storm and were well rewarded for it. The good cheer with which all who came was greeted, showed the belief that the object so long sought after, seemed near at hand—on one speaker said, "The day was breaking." It was a report of the year with the largest measure of work done, and seed sown which will doubtless show a great harvest.

Chairman, John L. Schultz, called the meeting to order. Adjutant Mott offered prayer. The secretary read the minutes of the last meeting, which were approved, and then called the roll. This disclosed the fact that Luther L. Osterhout the member from the Third ward, had passed to his reward and the secretary presented the following minute, which was unanimously adopted, ordered spread on the record and a copy sent to the family:

We are called upon from time to time to note the promotion of our staunch and foremost members, John L. Pratt, Captain Snyder, Alonzo Rose, James W. Donaldson, John R. Hunt, Bernard McBride and others, and now we are called to mourn the departure of our beloved and talented brother Rev. Luther L. Osterhout.

He stood for Prohibition as firm as a rock—there was no backsliding for him—he believed and practiced the good Methodist doctrine of going on to perfection.

Did others fall out by the way, he pressed forward. Did they slacken their pace, he quickened his. Did others throw away their armor, his was brightly polished until the great Captain bid him lay it down, and enter into the merited rest.

In former years he steadily refused to accept any nomination on our ticket, but last fall he was persuaded to accept the nomination for state senator, but slipped away before he could know how many friends he had who would place a mark before his name on the ticket.

In his business he was accurate—no one ever questioned his figures at the bank.

As a local preacher of his church, he was an able preacher of the gospel surpassing many who were in active ministry.

We well known his ready utterances in behalf of Prohibition, deep, profound, convincing. He was the principal speaker at our meeting a year ago.

Thank God for the token, one lip is still free. One spirit untrammelled, unbending our knee.

Like the oak of the mountains, deep rooted and firm, Erect while the multitude bends to the storm.

When the recreant church has forgotten her trust, And the lip of her honor lies low in the dust.

Thank God that one arm from the shackle has broken, Thank God that one party of freemen has spoken.

Resolved, that this minute be spread upon our record, and a copy be sent to the family of our deceased brother.

The following resolution was also adopted: Resolved, that we express to Chaplain A. T. Drake our love and esteem in his serious illness. We rejoice that toward the close of a long and honored career he placed his name with ours in the list of Prohibitionists. We shall pray that he may be sustained in his great suffering, and that he may hear the "Well done" from the great captain of his salvation.

Resolved, that a copy of the resolutions be spread upon our minutes and also sent to our brother. A. F. Stone was elected to take the place of Luther L. Osterhout, deceased. The chairman made a verbal report which he was asked to write out that it might be placed on file.

Adjutant and Mrs. Mott sang a Prohibition song composed by Mrs. Mott and was such a favorite in the whirlwind campaign last fall. The treasurer reported a larger sum than ever expended in the work, leaving, however, a fine amount in the treasury, to which was added a fine subscription for the work of next year.

In this election of officers, the chairman, John L. Schultz, when nominated urged the nomination of a younger man, but he was unanimously re-elected. Dr. C. O. Sahler and the Rev. Henry Frost were elected vice-chairmen, and the Rev. Dr. P. N. Chase, secretary and treasurer. Adjutant and Mrs. Mott responded to a call for another Prohibition song.

The Rev. Hough Houston, D. D., of Poughkeepsie was introduced and gave a strong and masterful address for which a hearty vote of thanks was given.

The following officers were unanimously elected: Chairman, John L. Schultz; vice-chairmen, Dr. C. O. Sahler and the Rev. Henry D. Frost; secretary and treasurer, the Rev. P. N. Chase.

Assembly district officers were elected as follows: First district, chairman, A. T. Stone; vice-chairmen, John A. Lord and Benjamin F. Fellows; secretary and treasurer, Frank L. Hyatt. Second assembly district, chairman, Sylvanus Van Keuren; vice-chairmen, Edward A. Smiley and Dr. John J. Becker; secretary and treasurer, the Rev. Henry D. Frost.

A recess was taken to enjoy one of Dr. Sahler's famous dinners, and after dinner addresses were made by the Rev. Dr. P. N. Chase, Dr. Sahler, the Rev. Henry D. Frost, Edward A. Smiley, Dr. Becker and others.

The following resolution was adopted: Resolved, that it is the sense of this meeting that the Prohibition party should assist the Citizens' League as far as possible in their plan to make Ulster county dry next fall.

Adjutant and Mrs. Mott sang several times during the day. Their songs were roundly applauded and a vote of thanks was heartily given them.

On motion the meeting adjourned.

MATTERS BEFORE THE SURROGATE

Surrogate Gill has granted letters of administration on the estate of Alva D. Lasher of the town of Woodstock to his son, Norvin R. Lasher, of Saugerties. The value of the real estate is $6,500 and the personal property amounts to $5,000. Judge Jenkins appeared for the administrator.

Letters of administration on the estate of William W. Cotant of the town of Lloyd were issued to his son, Louis B. Cotant. The value of the estate is $500 personal property. T. E. Edwards appeared for the administrator.

SAUGERTIES

Saugerties, Dec. 13.—Mr. and Mrs. A. Denning of Ulster avenue moved on Tuesday to West Haven, Conn., where they will reside in the future. Miss Maude Mulford of Washington avenue is in New York city.

Mrs. Thomas Belch has gone to Port Arthur, Texas, where she will reside. Mrs. John A. Snyder and Mrs. B. F. Davis of West Bridge street are spending a few days in New York.

Robert Ball of Pompton Lakes, N. J., is spending a few days with relatives in town. Mrs. Cole of South Rondout is a guest of her daughter, Mrs. John Shultz, on John street.

Miss Edith Van Gelder spent Tuesday in New York city. Henry Gardiner is ill at his home on Main street.

Advice is not disliked because it is advice, but because so few people know how to give it.—Leigh Hunt.

The Safe Side

"Those of us who are wise," says a well-known doctor, "will keep on the safe side by using only those foods that contain every-thing Nature puts into them."

A bit of good advice, that. Many foods, as usually prepared, especially cereals, are lacking in the vital mineral elements—phosphate of potash, etc., which the body must have for perfect balance and health.

There is one food,

Grape-Nuts

which is rich in these elements, containing, as it does, all the nutrient of whole wheat and barley. It is a delicious food, affording the sweetness of dextrinized wheat and the distinctive flavor of malted barley.

Every table should have its daily ration of Grape-Nuts.

AUTOMOBILE CASE VERDICT SET ASIDE

Judge Hasbrouck has handed down his decision in the matter of Abel R. Aernheily, plaintiff, against A. H. Chambers, defendant, a motion to set aside the verdict. The case was tried before Judge Hasbrouck at the October term of the supreme court and the jury returned a verdict of $75 for the plaintiff. In a memorandum Judge Hasbrouck says:

"The verdict is set aside unless the plaintiff files a stipulation in writing within 15 days reducing the verdict to $50 and waiving the taxable costs not including disbursements. Otherwise motion is denied." N. Frank O'Reilly appeared for plaintiff and Frank W. Brooks for defendant.

Gillespie Verdict Upheld.

A jury at the same term of court returned a verdict of $98.23 for W. Scott Gillespie, who brought an action against Stephen Shufeldt and Erskine Fox, co-partners. Judge Hasbrouck denies the motion made to set aside the verdict as to the defendant Fox and in his memorandum says:

"We can assume that the jury by its verdict found that the agreement testified to by the plaintiff between himself and the partnership of Shufeldt and Fox was actually made by it. The plaintiff thus surrendered the right the law gave him of proceeding immediately against Shufeldt for payment of the debt. By accepting the agreement of the partnership to pay in the stead of that of Shufeldt the plaintiff postponed such right to the exhaustion of his remedy first against the firm and its assets. This is the law as I view it constituted a novation. That being so, the claim that the agreement was within the statute of frauds would not be well made. Sheehy vs. Manderville, 6 Cranch (U. S.), 264; Serviss vs. McDonnell, 107 N. Y., 206; J. H. Lane & Co. vs. United Oilcloth Co., 92 N. Y. Supp., 1961; Spingarn vs. Rosenfeld, 4 Misc. 523; King vs. Israel, 19 Nisc. 156."

The action was brought by Mr. Gillespie for goods delivered on the day that the partnership was formed and in this way both Fox and Shufeldt were liable for the goods although ordered by one member before the partnership. Jenkins & Shufeldt appeared for plaintiff and Frederick Stephan, Jr., for defendant Fox.

Foibles of Great Musicians.

Beethoven gained his inspiration while walking. On these trips he would enter a restaurant and ask the astonished waiter for a bill without having ordered anything. His clumsiness was prodigious. He usually broke anything he touched. He never could dance in time.

SAVAGE DISCIPLINE.

The Way Unruly Indian Boys Were Punished in Former Days.

My grandmother had twelve children, and one uncle undertook to teach me the art of worship. He used to lead me to the sandbanks of the Mississippi river, where he would set fire to a pile of driftwood, and then, taking me by the hand, sing sacred songs to the fire and river. In the meantime he threw into them offerings of tobacco, red feathers, and sometimes oak twigs. I never knew the meaning of these offerings, but I always felt that some living thing actuated both the fire and the river.

Another uncle came to visit us periodically, and every time he came my brother or I suffered at his hands. Sometimes he would rush to the spring, carrying me horizontally under his arm and would plunge my head into the water until I almost suffocated.

His common form of discipline was to let me hang by my hands on the cross poles of the wigwam until my arms ached. My body writhed before I dropped. This uncle seemed to like best to command my older brother to let me hang by my hands with a rope. Then he would order me to resist—an ordeal that would make us both cry. In the winter he would also sometimes roll us in snow naked.

The punishment of Indian children is usually in the hands of some uncle rather than the parents. Our punishments were inflicted generally because we had disobeyed grandmother by failing to get wood at evening, had resisted fasting, had fought some Indian boys or had cried without sufficient cause.—Southern Workmen.

Quinine Not a Preventive.

Dr. E. Halford Ross in a letter to the London Lancet ridicules the attempt to prevent malaria by administering quinine. This cures malaria, but does not prevent it. Just as diphtheria is cured with antitoxin, but not prevented. He cites the utter failure of five years of quinine administration to prevent malaria in Egypt and of the marked reduction in the disease that immediately followed the enforcement of anti-mosquito measures.

Public Streets.

Under the Roman-Dutch civil law the title to a public street was in the sovereign, and this rule obtained in New Netherlands until the country now comprising New York city was taken over by the English in 1664.

The English common law, on the other hand, left the title to a public street in the owner of the adjacent land, with only "the right of passage for the king and his people."—New York Times.

On the Fly.

"So you want to know where flies come from, Tommy? Well, the cyclone makes the housefly, the blacksmith makes the firefly, the carpenter makes the sawfly, the driver makes the horsefly, the grower makes the sandfly, and the boarder makes the butterfly."—Chicago Herald.

BURGLARY WAS ONLY IMAGINARY

Longing to be a Movie Heroine Caused Servant in Snead Home to Put on a Real Thriller.

The reported attempt to rob the Snead residence on Albany avenue on the afternoon of Sunday, October 29, and its thwarting by the quick wit of the nurse girl in calling the police by phone after two burglars had gained entrance through the open back door, was enacted, it has been learned, only in the feverish brain of the girl who eventually had been disturbed by nerve-racking detective plays on the moving picture screen. The girl has confessed that the burglary never was attempted and that she was the sole actor. Quicker actions following the event aroused the suspicion of her mistress, whose questions resulted in the girl's confession.

Mr. and Mrs. James Snead had been living in the house, located at 309 Albany avenue, for only a short while previous to the occurrence. They had left the girl alone in the house. According to the story she told to the police, the girl saw two men enter the house through the back door, which was open, and immediately she called Central, shouting one word, "Police." The operator at once notified the police, who sent several of their number to the scene. No sooner had the girl sent the warning than the "two burglars" seized her, she said, gagged her with a handkerchief, and tied her hands behind her back with a cord. Then they decided to make their exit. She ran outside, through the door, which had been conveniently left open by the thieves, and fell fainting on the ground, where she was found by Robert Hutton, who lives next door.

Even the fainting spell did not place the girl at the end of her wit, for she quickly gave a description of the marauders to the police. One man was about fifty years old, she said, short and thick set, and wore a grey shirt and dark clothes. His companion was younger and taller.

Besides the authorities, many who read the account of the "robbery" in The Freeman the following day were suspicious as to the truthfulness of the girl's account. The time of the day, the girl's extraordinary presence of mind in calling the police when ordinarily under such circumstances one of her sex would be terrified beyond action, and the departure of the thieves before trying to seize any loot, all combined to arouse doubt. Close questioning of neighbors failed to bring out any account of the occurrence other than that given to the police.

Finally she confessed to her mistress that she alone was responsible for the "thriller," evidently inspired by a play of the same nature she had seen in the screen world.

FAME IN A FEW WORDS.

Commodore In Our Navy.

Previous to 1802 the courtesy title of commodore was given to all captains in the United States navy who had commanded a squadron, but no actual rank higher than that of captain existed. In July, 1802, the first captain to hold a higher office were commissioned as commodores. In 1882 the number of commodores on the active list was reduced from twenty-five to ten, and in 1890 the grade was abolished, and the ten commodores on the list promoted to the rank of rear admiral, the members in that grade being increased from six to eighteen.

He lives in deeds, not years; in thoughts, not breath; in feelings, not in figure on a dial. We should count time by heart throbs.

He most lives Who thinks most, feels the noblest, acts the best.

Bailey is very far from being the only author to live in men's minds by virtue of a single line, stanza or passage. It is a narrow margin by which to escape oblivion, but it serves. True, it is not the writer himself that is remembered, but as long as some spark from his brain still glimmers he is not totally dead. It may be a line from a song, "Meet me by moonlight alone," and "Don't you remember sweet Alice, Ben Bolt?" are repeated as catchwords by thousands who never heard of J. Augustus Wade or Thomas Dunn English.

Very often, however, the lines that survive are of high literary value. Theodore Tilton, soldier of fortune wrote:

On some eternal camping ground
Their silent tents are spread,
And glow with solemn round
The bivouacs of the dead.

By these four lines he won for himself admission to the eternal camping ground of poetry.

William Knott, a Scotch versifier, once wrote his fragmentary survival not so much to any great poet as to the monument of Abraham Lincoln, who loved to repeat:

Oh, why should the spirit of mortal be proud?
Like a fast flitting meteor, a fast flying cloud,
A flash of the lightning, a break of the wave,
He passes from life to rest in the grave.

—Philadelphia Ledger.

Debt We Owe Julius Caesar.

Because Julius Caesar thought a certain part of southern Europe which he visited some time during 45 B. C. was far too barren, and so utilized his knowledge of landscape gardening by supervising the planting of some thousands of the "Juglans Regia"—because of all this, we have in America today many flourishing orchards of English walnuts.

GROWTH OF THE BODY.

It Comes in Alternate Periods of Filling and Stretching.

That men and women grow in height and weight from birth until maturity, if they live the ordinary term of years, and that, as a rule, men are taller than women are facts of common knowledge. How this growth is accomplished is not so generally known, nor is it commonly understood that the difference in length of the male and female of the species is apparent even at birth. Carefully kept records show that the average boy baby is about two-fifths of an inch longer at birth than is the average baby girl.

Another curious feature of this growth discovered by patient research is the fact that it is not a gradual and regular increase. There are periods in which the youthful body expands rapidly in length, while it seems to become thin and lean.

Then comes a time where there is little increase in height, but the body becomes plump. While there is a slight difference of opinion as to the exact number of years and ages when these alternate growths are in evidence, the general proposition is conceded by the most thorough of the investigators.

Professor Straitz tabulates this growth of the body as follows: Period of the first fullness of body, two to five years; period of first stretching, six to eight years; period of second fullness, nine to eleven years; period of second stretching, twelve to sixteen years; period of maturing, seventeen to twenty-five years.

Professor Weissenberg, however, divides the time of growth somewhat differently and makes allowance for a difference between the periods of change in girls and boys.

His calculation is as follows: Period of first fullness, two to four years; period of first stretching, five to six years; period of retarded growth, boys eight to twelve years, girls eight to ten years; period of second stretching, boys thirteen to eighteen years, girls eleven to fifteen years; periods of retarded growth, boys nineteen to twenty-six years, girls sixteen to nineteen years; period of standing still and of the second fullness, twenty-six or twenty-nine to fifty-one years; period of decline, fifty-two to seventy-six years.

Among other interesting features of this growth, it is noted that the changes are not constant within the limits of a year, but appear to depend upon the season.

It has been found that increases in height and girth of chest are greater in summer than in winter. It would seem that the greatest gains in weight are made from August to January, the weight remaining almost constant from February to May.

Of course there are many special causes which in individual cases make exceptions to these rules, but under normal conditions this is the way our bodies grow from babyhood to maturity.—New York American.

Musical Bruises.

"That's a peculiar looking bruise you have on the back of your neck," observed the doctor.

"Yes," said the patient. "I am subject to those. You see, I'm a clarinet player in an orchestra."

"I don't see how that can produce bruises on the back of your neck."

"It doesn't produce them exactly, but it places me in a position where I am very liable to get them."

"How is that?"

The Soft Answer.

"You have no cause for complaint," said the editor coolly. "What in the world would you do if we told the truth about you?"—New York Globe.

HIGH COST OF FOOD AFFECTS THE JAIL

Supervisors' Committee Believe The Sheriff Should Have Increased Allowance For Feeding The Prisoners.

The increased cost of living is being felt by the sheriff in the board of prisoners, according to the report of the committee on sheriff's accounts, presented to the board of supervisors Tuesday night, and a resolution was adopted directing the county attorney to prepare an amendment to the statute providing that the sheriff shall receive thirty-five cents a day instead of twenty-five cents a day for the board of prisoners.

$500 Recommended for Denning.

The committee on highway accounts recommended the adoption of Supervisor Duluff's resolution to raise $500 on the county for the repair of bridges in the town of Denning. The report was filed.

County Poor Maintenance.

The committee on superintendent of the poor accounts reported that they had examined the accounts of Superintendent Van Orden and found them correct, that they had visited the county poor farm at different times and always found the buildings and property in the best possible condition. The committee found that the cost of maintenance to the towns, as reported by Superintendent Van Orden amounting to $9,437.22, and recommended that such sum be raised on the towns in the amount reported for each town in the superintendent's report. It will also be necessary to raise $4,120 on the county outside the city for maintenance for the ensuing year.

The committee also reported that bills of asylums, hospitals and other institutions had been presented amounting to $3,299.01, which had been allowed at that amount, and recommended that such amount be raised on the towns and the county as follows:

Denning	$12.50
Esopus	9.65
Floyd	9.72
Marbletown	358.32
Marlborough	597.19
New Paltz	84.00
Plattekill	17.95
Rochester	117.42
Rosendale	242.75
Saugerties	364.65
Shawangunk	315.78
Ulster	445.18
Wawarsing	50.00
County of Ulster	674.26

The committee also recommended that $1,806 be raised on the county outside the city to meet bills of the Industrial Home for the ensuing year; $9,437.22 on the towns as shown by the superintendent's report (heretofore published); $4,120 on the county outside the city for maintenance.

The committee recommended also that a detached hospital building be erected, as recommended heretofore. The report was filed.

Regular Appropriations.

The committee on county treasurer and sealer reported they had examined the report of the county treasurer and found it correct. There is a debit balance for the court and jury fund of $2,140.78, and the committee recommended that there be appropriated $20,500 for the court and jury fund for the ensuing year; $2,100 for the burial of deceased soldiers; $800 for printing the proceedings of the board; $55,692.50 for paying county bonds and coupons falling due; $2,280 on the county outside the city to pay county poor house bonds and coupons falling due, and $500 for bounties for foxes and jack rabbits.

Costs More to Keep Prisoners.

The committee on sheriff's accounts reported that bills had been presented amounting to $5,264.40, which had been allowed at $5,260.12. The committee reported further that it had inquired into the increased cost of caring for prisoners in the Ulster county jail by investigating the cost of food and had concluded that the allowance of twenty-five cents a day to the sheriff was insufficient; that he had continued to furnish good and sufficient food to the prisoners but in justice to the sheriff to furnish proper food he should receive thirty-five cents a day, which was adequate but not excessive. The report was filed.

Pay for Emergency Workers.

The committee on commissioners of elections' accounts filed a supplemental report of bills filed amounting to $303.75 which had been allowed at that amount. These bills were for emergency workers engaged in com-

Used and endorsed by the best cooks for more than a generation.

VELOCK'S DAILY SPORTING LETTER

(By Jack V'elock.)

(International News Sports Editor.)

New York, Dec. 13.—Some of the bludgeon wielders in the National League who failed to sting the ball safely as many times as they had hoped to during the 1916 season have an alibi.

Yes, boys! And that alibi can be found in the pitching records of the forkhand stabbers.

It might seem a little "farfetched" to you at first, but if you, Mr. Fan, had stood up against some of the uncanny southpaw twirling that National League batsmen faced last summer, you'd understand right off the reel.

In slanting at the pitching records for 1916 we notice that the southpaw fellers have a good reason to stick out their chests and grin for the number of earned runs made off them were fewer than those made off the righthanders.

Standing at the head of the list is Ferdie Schupp, the young sensation of the New York Giants. Just nine-tenths of a tally was earned off Schupp in each nine-inning game. So, you see, if the opposition had gotten no more than it earned off Ferdinand he wouldn't have had a whole run sneaked across the dish against him all season. Not bad, eh?

In second place is Grover Alexander, of the Phils. and, of course, Grover is known the country over as a corking pitcher from the right-hand side of the slab. Grover allowed a trifle over one run per nine innings.

Next in the averages came Rube Marquard, of the Dodgers; Enna Rixey, of the Phils, and Wilbur Cooper, of the Pirates. All of these athletes are left-handers. Sixth and seventh places in the pitching records are occupied by Eddie Pfeffer and Larry Cheney, both right-handers, and the first seven men allowed less than two earned runs per game.

With such pitching, and especially such effective work by some of the portside wigglers, the player whose batting average did not please him can point to the pitching records and murmur: "There's the reason."

The remainder of the list showing pitching averages contains many of the lads who hurl with the knife hand, and it is noticeable that out of the first fourteen men nine are southpaws and four of the leading men are also side-wheelers, while the same holds for seven of the first ten.

Major league baseball writers are looking for some lively trading among the clubs in the big show once the two annual meetings are over and the managers get down to the business of thinking about what they are going to do in 1917. The Giants, Red Sox and Athletics are said to be about the only clubs that will stand pat with what players they have, and thus fully a dozen of the sixteen big league clubs may be expected to make some shifts.

Guy Morton, the stellar wiggler of the Cleveland Indians, will be back on the job with a good salary again next spring. Morton hurt his arm in the service of the Indians, and after he became disabled he was sent to Benezetter Reese, who has put the wing back into shape. Morton is a peculiar pitcher. He seems to have a double-jointed arm, according to Jim Dunn, owner of the Indians. Dunn says that Morton pitches with a crooked arm. He is noted for his speed.

Many of the best little sporting experts believe the time is coming when the picking of all-American football teams will be left largely to a few men, whose judgment in the selection of all-American talent will be eminently fair and whose word will be universally considered final.

There are generally a few football stars who stand out above the rank and file in a season's time, but aside from these men the selection of the best is largely a matter of taking a chance on the part of the ones who select teams. Because of the annual custom the writer chose all-American teams this year, and we believe that the selections made were fair to the players named, yet in all probability a team almost equally as strong could have been chosen.
